LUMBER BEING SHIPPED FOR START ON NEW LOCK

Government Is Getting Things in Shape at Lock No. 4.

TO BUILD COFFER DAM

Work to be Started Probably Within Few Weeks---May Take Long Time.

The sound of the hammer and saw will soon be heard about Lock No. 4. and actual work will be gotten under way for the reconstruction of the lock and dam there. Evidences of activity are already apparent. Approximately 250,000 feet of lumber have been unloaded at the lock to be used in the construction of a coffer dam, the first essential to the building of a new lock. This much more lumber is yet to be received, together with a large quantity of cement, machinery and various materials to be used.

While perhaps the men of the engineering department that will have charge of the work could give no definite idea of the time when the first work will be done, it is thought that not much more than a month will elapse before things are humming. Lock No. 1, at Pittsburg has to be completed and put in good operating order before new work can be taken up Lock No. 4 will come after that. Thereis fully a month's work yet to be accomplished at Lock No. 1, even with the best weather.

The length of time that will be required to complete the coffer dam at Lock No. 4 is a problem that is worrying the United States engineers somewhat. They can merely guess, not knowing the condition of the bottom where they will have to locate. It may take two weeks or a month, or it may take six months. Persons most familiar with the present Lock No. 4 state that in some places the river is 20 and in some places 40 feet deep. It is probable that some of the old cribs will have to be taken out. Four of these are now in the river there, having been placed in order to keep the lock in operation these many years. Stone was piled between thecribs as each additional one was installed. That was done because of the realization the last cribbing put in would not last much longer that money was appropriated from a special fund for reconstructing Lock No. 4, is a belief of some. Once actual work is started it will be finished, either by special appropriation or by drawing entirely on the special fund.

All the lumber that has been received thus far is hemlock from Maryland forests. To transport the 250,000 feet has required eleven cars. Before all the material needed for the new lock is in, it is stated 600 cars loads will have been received.

The government will lay a siding down the river shore it is undestood when actual building is started allowing plenty of space in which to receive material. This new siding will be laid in such manner as to make it possivle to unload either from railroad or from barge into the same yard. The construction of a new lock and dam will be no simple matter. It will require probably two years to accomplish.

Hustle Work of New Plant

Two Shafts Being Sunk by Reliance Company Having Tract Near Brownsville

Four contractors are engaged at work at the scene of the Reliance Coke plant a short distance south of Brownsville on the Washington county side of the Monongahela river. Two shafts are being sunk. Orders have been issued to hasten the work. A tipple is to be built, together with a large number of houses. Across the river from that point the Allicia company is putting new coke ovens into operation. There a new coke crushing process has been successfully operated.

TO HOLD MEETING FRIDAY

Athene Club to Begin Year's Study of Inventors and Scientists

YEAR BOOK IS ISSUED

Tomorrow afternoon the Athene Club, the Charleroi woman's literary organization will hold its first meeting of the year. Mrs. John W. Gordon of Belle Vernon will be the hostess. The first day's program will consist of the address by the president, Mrs. T. M. Faddis; the presentation of the program for the year by Mrs. E. C. Niver, chairman of the program committee, and an address. Roll call will be answered by vacation incidents.

The year book has just recently been issued by the program committee, which consisted of Mrs. E. C. Niver, Mrs. R. C. Mountsier and the late Mrs. H. J. Repman. The latter was engaged on the work of preparation of the program at the time of her demise, together with the other two members

Although the first meeting is to be held tomorrow afternoon, virtually the study of the year's topic "Inventors and Scientists" will begin at the next meeting to be held a fortnight hence. The season will extend to April 25, when the final meeting will be held.

The Athene Club of Charleroi is one of the best known organizations of the kind in the Pittsburg district. Its principal object is to bring together more closely women interested in Art, Literature and Science for the purpose of mental culture. The membership is limited to twenty. Officers of the organization are: President. Mrs. T. M. Faddis; first vice president, Miss Elizabeth Has-

PIONEER RESIDENT OF CHARLEROI DIES

John Hackett, aged 77 years a pioneer resident of Charleroi, and a member of the first council of the Magic City died this morning at 4:50 o'clock from an attack of apploxey, at the home of his son, Robert Hackett, of 403 1-2 Meadow avenue. Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock Mr Hackett fell in a faint while at his son's home. He never regained consciousness.

Mr. Hackett was the father of Rev. John T. Hackett, who is the pastor of the First Presbyterian church. He is survived by his widow and the two sons. Coming to the United States form his birthplace in County Tyrone, Ireland, when he was 17 years old. Mr. Hackett settled in Philadelphia. After spending several years there he came west, locating in Gibsonton. For years he was employed as the head cooper in the Gibsonton Distilling company's plant. He returned to Philadelphia to spend a couple of years, and in the fall of 1890, when Charleroi was just assuming shape. he came here, entering business. Mr. Hackett built during the early years of his residence in Charleroi what is now known as the [illegible] building on the corner of Fifth street and Washington avenue, and also the present home of Dr. N. W. Patton, where he lived for some time.

Mr. Hackett had an important part to do in the building of Charleroi. As a member of council he did yoemen service in civic work and was an associate of the late James S. McKean in the founding of the Magic City. After residing here for some time he moved back to Philadelphia and lived there a time, only to return to Charleroi. For a period he conducted a drygoods and grocery store.

At the time of his death Mr. Hackett was an elder of the First Presbyterian church. He was one of the organizers of this denomination and was a member of the building committee which looked after the erection of the present building.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Rev. J. T. Hackett at 601 Shady avenue. Services will be conducted by Rev. Perrin Baker of the Belle Vernon Presbyterian church, a friend of years of Mr. Hackett. The body will be taken Friday evening to Philadelphia to the home of a niece and interment will take place Sunday in the Mount Moriah Cemetery.

THINKS MARDI GRAS PARADE GOOD THING

Chief of Police Albright Favors Organized Celebration of Hallowe'en as Means of Protection for Town

That an organized celebration on Hallowe'en with a Mardi Gras parade would be a means of preventing mischief, besides getting a crowd to town accomplishing other good results, is the belief of Chief of Police C. W. Albright. No movement is under way yet for a Hallowe'en celebration, but much interest is being taken. Chief Albright states that two years ago when an organized celebration of Halowe'en was held, there was practically no damage done. The police had an easy time of it. At that time prizes were offered to the best dressed persons. Young and old alike participated in the celebration Last year there was no celebration excepting that prepared impromptu by maskers. Then there was some damage done, according to the chief of police.

The idea of Chief Albright is to have a regular Mardi Gras parade with prizes offered to the best and most comic dressed. The prizes do not have to be large, the purpose being rather to designate the persons regarded as having shown the most talent in their makeup. Yearly in some places Hallowe'en celebrations are held. New Orleans has a week's Mardi Gras annually and New York has its New Year's celebration with similar appointments. Pittsburg observes Hallowe'en usually in much the same manner that Charleroi observed the day two years ago.

WILL CLOSE CAMPAIGN WITH MONSTER RALLY

Local Republicans Brgin Preparations For Meeting.

SPEAKERS ARE ENGAGED

Gov. Tener and Other Strong Men of Party to Make Addresses.

Projecting themselves forcibly into the Monongahela valley Presidential campaign, the newly organized Charleroi Taft and Sherman club leaders are beginning preparations for a monster rally that will put a whirlwind finish to affairs locally. Gov. John K. Tener will participate in this affair together with various other famed political orators. No date has been set for the gathering, but it will be fixed soon. However, it will be but a few days before election.

When the Charleroi Taft and Sherman club was organized there was enthusiasm to burn. If Col. Roosevelt had seen the meeting he wouldn't have considered a trip up the Monongahela valley worth while, because he would have seen he would lose out anyhow. The enthusiasm will have its outburst in the political rally.

Arrangements are scarcely more than started, but it is likely that there will be a big parade similar to that with which two years ago the Tener campaign was opened here. It will be a Taft meeting from the word go.

Nothing has been heard lately of the proposed trip up the valley of Col. Roosevelt. Many think the idea was suggested by some of Pittsburg coherts of the Bull Mooser simply to throw a scare into the Republican ranks up this way. If that was the reason it failed completely. The Woodrow Wilson meeting held a couple of weeks or so ago now seems so far back that the campaign arguments used by W. H. Guthrie and others have been nearly forgotten. The closing meeting will be by the Taftites and will be a hummer that will bring the administration and Republican ticket lots of votes.

Repair Work Is Completed

U.S. Engineers Steam Launch Luzon Off the Docks at Government Yards

Much repair work was done at the government yards at North Charleroi during the month of September. One of the most important jobs finished was that of renovating the United States Engineers steam launch Luzon. This launch was placed in the government yards the fore part of the month, and all the machinery was taken from it, and thoroughly overhauled. Improvements were effected.

Dredge Boat No. 2 was overhauled, and put in the best of shape. One new flat was built, and the government force is now engaged on another one.

The United States repair boat Slackwater has been busy all month, doing odd jobs at various points along the river. During a part of the month the Slackwater was employed at Lock No. 2 making repairs.

BALLOTS WILL BE IMMENSE

County Commissioner's Clerk Busy Preparing Copy

TO BEAR MANY NAMES

With but practically a month intervening Chief Clerk H. R. Campbell of the county commissioners office is beginning the necessary preliminary work to getting the election ballots ready for the November election. The ballot this year promises to be a large one. Unless there are some withdrawals or their party titles are found incorrect there will be at least eight electoral tickets on the ballot in all probability.

As this is a Presidential year the papers of all parties are filed at Harrisburg and until an official copy of the ballot is received from Harrisburg it will not be known locally just what will be on it in the way of Presidential tickets. The present probobilities include the following:

Republican, Democratic, Prohibition, Socialist, Socialist-Labor, Washington, Progressive and Industrialist.

The large number of parties, each of which will have 38 electors if they have on the ticket all they are entitled to, will make a very wide ballot. It is no easy job getting the required number of ballots ready and getting them out on time and the next few weeks will see some strenuous work on the part of Clerk Campbell and his assistants.

THE CASSIDY CASE.

Political enemies of Governor J. K. Tener in the State are attempting to make capital out of what is known as the Cassidy case. Harry P. Cassidy, agent of the state Dairy and Food Commission at Philadelphia, was dismissed for insubordination and on account of other charges, and some of the newspapers hostile to Governor Tener are attempting to show that the dismissal was prompted in the interests of large concerns who make a profit out of food adulteration. Concerning this the Philadelphia Telegram says:

It seems a shame that the once good and expresive term, "a square deal," has lost much of its virtue and effect owing to political attitudes, that are on the bias, and conduct which is not rightangled to truth, of the man who once posed as the principal exponent of the "square deal" and who popularized the phrase—and himself as its supreme practitioner—into general acceptance.

If the phase still held inviolate the olden meaning in which the people had faith before the Roosevelt Administration, and if the inherent decencies and significances of the words had not departed, leaving them merely sounding and empty, "a square deal" would be eminently and essentially applicable to the conduct of Governor Tener in the Cassidy case.

It is hardly necessary to rehearse the sordid facts of this fall from grace and popularity—to recall how a man not only trusted as a civil servant, but also reproductive of help, praise as an unselfish and devoted guardian conservator of the people's health came to be accused of malfeasance and senility in office. But to get the bearings of the matter, it may be permitted to set down in recapitulation that Harry P. Cassidy was the local agent of the State Dairy and Food Commission with the State's most extensive district under his inspection. The accusation of his corrupt conduct and inefficient performance of duty came from his superior officer. Thereupon the State Dairy and Food Commissioner, as was his legal right and duty, dismissed the official regarded as delinquent from the service for the public good. The discharged agent, backed by organizations and journals which have been friendly to him for many years, resented this premptory removal, entering through his counsel a general denial to the charges that he protected or favored violators of the pure food laws—which are fundamental to the public health—that he "blackmailed" persons known to produce unsound commodities, dividing fees in a systematized manner with attorneys and magistrates and that, while he diligently prosecuted some offenders, he was not active against others, for special and discreditable reasons. He called upon the Governor of the Commonwealth, therefore for a public hearing of the charges.

With rare courtesy and voluntarily for attention to this affair was not imperatively mandatory or otherwise incumbent upon him, Governor Tener acorded a hearing to the accused official, at which time his superior presented concrete evidence and his attorney entered an abstract defense. The Governor with a fine spirit of fair dealing—a term we must now use instead of the discredited Rooseveltian metaphor "a square deal"—devoted time from his busy days and from the pressing affairs of State, that a minor official, whose dismissal was acording to the statutes should present his case.

Nothing could be more equitable, more inspiring than this straightforward, manly action, which is, indeed, a warrant that every man in Pennsylvania has not only the law's guarantees, but if he is an accussed public official the extra-legal opportunity of setting himself aright, providing justice resides in his cause and he is thus thrice-armed.

Governor Tener has now transmitted his finding in the matter. He justly arrives at the conclusion that the dismissal of Agent Cassidy was for the good of the service. In his own well-chosen and reasonable words:

The hearing was not a judicial one wherein the witnesses could be sworn; I have no power to hold such. In justice to you, it is proper to say that no direct evidence of corrupt that no direct evidence or corrupt conduct was presented at the hearing. Some of the allegations, though denied by you were circumstantially against you, were circumstantially against you. But it's much [illegible] friends must admit that he has been fully heard and fairly.

[illegible] work. This is but [illegible] the Governor selected with sagacity and statesmanship. He has accurately stated the issue merely. He has [illegible] the Cassidy case properly by upholding the discharge of an official who is even merely under circumstantial suspicion of venality or inefficiency. For the absence of confidence in his future work means a destruction of his usefulness to the public in his field of activity.

Agent Cassidy has had a hearing which every rational thinker will acknowledge has been fair. It was not a judicial inquiry, because the Governor is not qualified under the Constitution to sit as a magistrate. But quasi-judicial as it was, the hearing seems to the fairminded as determinative. If the defendant is not satisfied personally he may take the matter to the courts. But even his

Newton Newkirk, formerly from Beallsville, out on the pike in West Pike Run township, who has achieved fame by his "Bingville Bugle" sketches, which appear in a Pittsburg paper and some other periodicals, does daily newspaper plugging on the Boston Post. Mr. Newkirk who is said to have gotten his Bingville idea from the country correspondence published in the Greene county papers, also contrimutes daily a column to the Boston Post, under the heading of "All Sorts." This, like the "Bingville Bugle" sketches also contains some rare bits of humor, whic are frequently a burlesque on men and affairs of the present day. The other day Newkirk presented in his "All Sorts" Column an allged interview with John D. Rockefeller, in which the latter is made to express his views on some of the leading issues of the day.

"How's business, Mr. Rockefeller?" asks Newkirk, who signs the interview in the "All Sorts" column in the Post as "Ike Inkslinger."

"Ates, I had a terribel financial setback last week. I lost a golf ball, the first in two years. However, I raised the price of gasoline a cent—one must live, you know."

"Mr. Rockefeller, will you tell us how to solve the high cost of living?" asks Inkslinger.

"That is a very easy problem to solve. The trouble with most people is that they live too high. It hardly costs me anything to live. For breakfast I have dried apples and a glass of water. For lunch I simply let the dried apples swell. For dinner I have a piece of cheese and a glass of skimmed milk (I sell the cream, of course.) For something extra I buy a little cut of beef from right between the horns and make a stew of it. If stewed long enough you can almost chew it. At any rate you get the delicious meaty flavor from the gravy."

"How do you get the most fun out of life, Mr. Rockefeller?"

"By siting right here n my piazza and watching the automobiles go by. They used to pass very fast and kick up a lot of dust, but I stopped that. I had the road filled with bumps. I laughed the other evening until I got a stitch in my side at a fellow who didn't know about the bumps and went by 40 miles an hour. It was very funny."

This terminated the interview and as Mr. Rockefeller arose to say goodby he noticed a pin lying on the floor and picked it up. The pin was bent, but Mr. Rocefeiler straightened it and stuck it into the lapel of his coat for future reference.

CATTLE CROSSING OVER IRRIGATING CANAL

HOME and social life in Northern California is the most pleasant because there are more bright days than in Southern Italy, and there is every convenience for bringing people together.

FARMS in the Sacramento Valley produce many more times net profit to the acre than Eastern farms because the soil is the best, sun shines every day, and there is plenty of good water for irrigating, with proper drainage.

ORANGES, potatoes, alfalfa and all fruits, grains, grasses and vegetables mature earlier in Northern California than in any part of the world.

STOCK and POULTRY are easier to raise and produce more because the climate is healthful and green feed grows in abundance.

MARKETS are very near, with cheap railroad and river transportation, making financial success sure.

If interested, we urge you to write us today and learn of people who are making big money there now.

Let us know what you wish most to be informed about and get an instructive reply.

Don't delay, every day now sees new settlers moving on this land, as it is ready for seed, and the best farms go first.

LAYING OUT A ROAD.

Billings Was In No Hurry, So the Work Was Done Right.

A good thirty years ago C. K. G. Billings, who made his millions in Chicago gas, bought a good sized plot of ground on the heights overlooking the Hudson river at the upper end of Manhattan Island. Some time later he put up a house which still remains the pride of "seeing New York" guides.

When the land had been bought the question arose as to the best means of laying out a roadway up the steep and rocky hill, at the crest of which the house was to stand. Mr. Billings was puzzled. He wanted to make it as easy a climb as he could. He mentioned the problem to his friend W. C. Muschenheim, a New York hotel proprietor. Mr. Muschenheim, who was familiar with the hills and dales of that part of New York, gave the following advice:

"You aren't in any great hurry so why don't you have it done right? Put one of your cows on that land and give her time to lay out a path up that hill. Trust her to find the easiest and most comfortable grade."

Mr. Billings followed the suggestion, and in the course of time the cow made a path which has long since been developed into a permanent, winding, slowly ascending roadway.—Saturday Evening Post.

BIRTH OF A LETTER.

The Way "W" Came to Take the Place of the Old "VV."

The printers and language makers of the latter part of the sixteenth century began to recognize the fact that there was a sound in spoken English which was without a representative in the shape of an alphabetical sign or character, as in the first sound in the word "wet."

Prior to that time it had always been spelled as "vet," the v having the long sound of u or of two u's together. In order to convey an idea of the new sound they began to spell such words as "wet," "weather," "web," etc., with two u's, and as the u of that date was a typical v the three words above looked like this: "Vvet," "vveather," "vveb."

After awhile the typefounders recognized the fact that the double u had come to stay, so they joined the two u's together and made the character now so well known as w. There are books in which three forms of the w are given. The first is an old double v (vv); the next is one in which the last stroke of the first v crosses the first stroke of the second, and the third is the common w we use today.

Real Literary Crumbs.

The librarian opened the book wide and shook it hard.

"Looking for possible love letters and mementos?" a visitor asked.

"No; breadcrumbs," said the librarian. "Subsequent readers do not mind love letters, but they do object to breadcrumbs. Half the books brought back have crumbs tucked away between the leaves. That shows what a studious town we are. Our people are so enamored of literature that they can't stop reading long enough to eat; also it shows what a lonely town we are. Only people who live alone a great deal read anything except the newspaper at mealtime. And it shows what a slovenly town we are. In the interests of hygiene and aesthetics those voracious readers who cram their heads and their stomachs at the same time ought to clean their books of crumbs, but they never do."—New York Press.

Hindu Caste.

The four grades of society among the Hindus are the Brahmans or sacerdotal class, who are said at the moment of creation to have issued from the mouth of Brahma; the Kshatrya or Chutisee or military class, sprung from the arm of Brahma; the Vaisya or Bais or mercantile class, from the thigh of Brahma, and Sudras or Sooders or servile class, from the foot of Brahma. The business of the Sudras is to serve the three superior classes, more especially the Brahmans. Their condition is said to be improved. They are not to accumulate property and are unable by any means to approach the dignity of the higher castes. These divisions are hereditary, impassable and hide bound.

Precedent For "Governess."

Albert VII., archduke of Austria, married Isabella Clara Eugenia, infanta of Spain who brought to him as dowry the sovereignty of the Low Countries, etc. When Philip IV. of Spain ascended the throne in 1621 he took from his aunt the sovereignty of the Low Countries but left her the title of governess. Her husband died soon after, whereon she took the veil, though still retaining the reins of government. She died at Brussels in 1633 aged sixty-six. Here there is precedent for the use of the word governess when a lady holds the post.—London Notes and Queries.

Franklin on Long Graces.

Ben Franklin found the long graces used by his father before and after meals very tedious. One day after the winter's provision had been salted he said, "I think, father, if you were to say grace over the whole cask once for all it would be a great saving of time."—Life.

FREE ADVICE TO SICK WOMEN

Thousands Have Been Helped By Common Sense Suggestions.

Women suffering from any form of female ills are invited to communicate promptly with the woman's private correspondence department of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established a confidential correspondence which has extended over many years and which has never been broken. Never have they published a testimonial or used a letter without the written consent of the writer, and never has the Company allowed these confidential letters to get out of their possession, as the hundreds of thousands of them in their files will attest.

Out of the vast volume of experience which they have to draw from, it is more than possible that they possess the very knowledge needed in your case. Nothing is asked in return except your good will, and their advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Address Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass.

Every woman ought to have Lydia E. Pinkham's 80-page Text Book. It is not a book for general distribution, as it is too expensive. It is free and only obtainable by mail. Write for it today.

LUMBER BEING SHIPPED FOR START ON NEW LOCK

Government Is Getting Things in Shape at Lock No. 4.

TO BUILD COFFER DAM

Work to be Started Probably Within Few Weeks---May Take Long Time.

The sound of the hammer and saw will soon be heard about Lock No. 4, and actual work will be gotten under way for the reconstruction of the lock and dam there Evidences of activity are already apparent. Approximately 250,000 feet of lumber have been unloaded at the lock to be used in the construction of a coffer dam, the first essential to the building of a new lock. This much more lumber is yet to be received, together with a large quantity of cement, machinery and various materials to be used

While perhaps the men of the engineering department that will have charge of the work could give no definite idea of the time when the first work will be done, it is thought that not much more than a month will elapse before things are humming Lock No. 1, at Pittsburg has to be completed and put in good operating order before new work can be taken up Lock No. 4 will come after that. Thereis fully a month's work yet to be accomplished at Lock No. 1, even with the best weather.

The length of time that will be required to complete the coffer dam at Lock No. 4 is a problem that is worrying the United States engineers somewhat. They can merely guess, not knowing the condition of the bottom where they will have to locate. It may take two weeks or a month, or it may take six months. Persons most familiar with the present Lock No. 4 state that in some places the river is 20 and in some places 40 feet deep. It is probable that some of the old cribs will have to be taken out. Four of these are now in the river there, having been placed in order to keep the lock in operation these many years. Stone was piled between thecribs as each additional one was installed. That was done becauseof the realization the last cribbing put in would not last much longer that money was appropriated from a special fund for reconstructing Lock No. 4, is a belief of some. Once actual work is started it will be finished, either by special appropriation or by drawing entirely on the special fund.

All the lumber that has been received thus far is hemlockfrom Maryland forests. To transport the 250,000 feet has required eleven cars Before all the material needed for the new lock is in, it is stated 600 cars loads will have been received.

The government will lay a siding down the river shore it is undestood when actual building is started allowing plenty of space in which to receive material. This new siding will be laid in such manner as to make it possivle to unload either from railroad or from barge into the same yard. The construction of a new lock and dam will be no simple matter. It will require probably two years to accomplish.

PIONEER RESIDENT OF CHARLEROI DIES

John T. Hackett, Member of First Council and Widely Known Man Succumbs to an Attack of Appoplexy

John Hackett, aged 77 years, a pioneer resident of Charleroi, and a member of the first council of the Magic City died this morning at 4:50 o'clock from an attack of appoplexy, at the home of his son, Robert Hackett, of 403 1-2 Meadow avenue. Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 while at his son's home. He never regained consciousness.

Mr. Hackett was the father of Rev. John T. Hackett, who is the pastor of the First Presbyterian church He is survived by his widow and the two sons. Coming to the United States [illegible] Ireland, when he was 17 years old. Mr. Hackett settled in Philadelphia After spending several years there he came west, locating in Gibsonton For years he was employed as the head cooper in the Gibsonton Distilling company's plant. He returned to Philadelphia to spend a couple of years, and in the fall of 1890, when Charleroi was just assuming shape. he came here, entering business Mr Hackett built during the early years of his residence in Charleroi what is now known as [illegible] building on the corner of Fifth street and Washington avenue, and also the present home of Dr. N. W Patton, where he lived for some time

Mr Hackett had an important part to do in the building of Charleroi As a member of council he did yoemen service in civic work and was an associate of the late James S. McKean in the founding of the Magic City moved back to Philadelphia and lived there a time, only to return to Charleroi. For a period he conducted a drygoods and grocery store

At the time of his death Mr. Hackett was an elder of the First Presbyterian church He was one of the [illegible] was a member of the building committee which looked after the election of the present building.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Rev J T Hackett at 601 Shady avenue. Services will be conducted by Rev. Perrin Baker of the Belle Vernon Presbyterian church, a friend of years of Mr. Hackett. The body will be taken Friday evening to Philadelphia to the home of a niece and interment will take place Sunday in the Mount Moriah Cemetery.

THINKS MARDI GRAS PARADE GOOD THING

Chief of Police Albright Favors Organized Celebration of Hallowe'en as Means of Protection for Town

That an organized celebration on Hallowe'en with a Mardi Gras parade would be a means of preventing mischief, besides getting a crowd to town accomplishing other good results, is the belief of Chief of Police C. W. Albright. No movement is under way yet for a Hallowe'en celebration, but much interest is being taken. Chief Albright states that two years ago when an organized celebration of Halowe'en was held, there was practically no damage done. The police had an easy time of it. At that time prizes were offered to the best dressed persons. Young and old alike participated in the celebration Last year there was no celebration excepting that prepared impromptu by maskers. Then there was some damage done, according to the chief of police.

The idea of Chief Albright is to have a regular Mardi Gras parade with prizes offered to the best and most comic dressed. The prizes do not have to be large, the purpose being rather to designate the persons regarded as having shown the most talent in their makeup. Yearly in some places Hallowe'en celebrations are held. New Orleans has a week's Mardi Gras annually and New York has its New Year's celebration with similar appointments. Pittsburg observes Hallowe'en usually in much the same manner that Charleroi observed the day two years ago.

Repair Work Is Completed

U.S. Engineers Steam Launch Luzon Off the Docks at Government Yards

Much repair work was done at the government yards at North Charleroi during the month of September One of the most important jobs finished was that of renovating the United States Engineers steam launch Luzon This launch was placed in the government yards the fore part of the month, and all the machinery was taken from the [illegible] thoroughly overhauled Improvements were effected.

Dredge Boat No 2 was overhauled, and put in the best of shape One new flat was built, and the government force is now engaged on another one.

The United States repair boat Slackwater has been busy all month, doing odd jobs at various points along the river During a part of the month the Slackwater was employed at Lock No 2 making repairs.

BALLOTS WILL BE IMMENSE

County Commissioner's Clerk Busy Preparing Copy

TO BEAR MANY NAMES

With but practically a month intervening Chief Clerk H R. Campbell of the county commissioners office is beginning the necessary preliminary work to getting the election ballots ready for the November election. The ballot this year promises to be a large one. Unless there are some withdrawals or their party titles are found incorrect there will be at least eight electoral tickets on the ballot in all probability

As this is a Presidential year the papers of all parties are filed at Harrisburg and until an official copy of the ballot is received from Harrisburg it will not be known locally just what will be on it in the way of Presidential tickets. The present probobilities include the following:

Republican, Democratic, Prohibition, Socialist, Socialist-Labor, Washington, Progressive and Industrialist.

The large number of parties, each of which will have 38 electors if they have on the ticket all they are entitled to, will make a very wide ballot. It is no easy job getting the required number of ballots ready and getting them out on time and the next few weeks will see some strenuous work on thepart of Clerk Campbell and his assistants.

Local Republicans Brgin Preparations For Meeting.

Gov. Tener and Other Strong Men of Party to Make Addresses.

Projecting themselves forcibly into the Monongahela valley Presidential campaign, the newly organized Charleroi Taft and Sherman club leaders are beginning preparations for a monster rally that will put a whirlwind finish to affairs locally. Gov. John K. Tener will participate in this affair together with various other famed political orators No date has been set for the gathering, but it will be fixed soon However, it will be but a few days before election.

When the Charleroi Taft and Sherman club was organized there was enthusiasm to burn. If Col. Roosevelt had seen the meeting he wouldn't have considered a trip up the Monongahela valley worth while, because he would have seen he would lose out anyhow. The enthusiasm will have its outburst in the political rally.

Arrangements are scarcely more than started, but it is likely that there will be a big parade similar to that with which two years ago the Tener campaign was opened here. It will be a Taft meeting from the word go.

Nothing has been heard lately of the proposed trip up the valley of Col. Roosevelt. Many think the idea was suggested by some of Pittsburg coherts of the Bull Mooser simply to throw a scare into the Republican ranks up this way. If that was the reason it failed completely. The Woodrow Wilson meeting held a couple of weeks or so ago now seems so far back that the campaign arguments used by W. H. Guthrie and others have been nearly forgotten. The closing meeting will be by the Tafutes and will be a hummer that will bring the administration and Republican ticket lots of votes.

BULL MOOSER NAME COMMITTEE FOR COUNTY

THE CASSIDY CASE.

Political enemies of Governor J. K. Tener in the State are attempting to make capital out of what is known as the Cassidy case. Harry P. Cassidy, agent of the state Dairy and Food Commission at Philadelphia, was dismissed for insubordination and on account of other charges, and some of the newspapers hostile to Governor Tener are attempting to show that the dismissal was prompted in the interests of large concerns who make a profit out of food adulteration. Concerning this the Philadelphia Telegram says:

It seems a shame that the once good and expresive term, "a square deal," has lost much of its virtue and effect owing to political attitudes, that are on the bias, and conduct which is not rightangled to truth, of the man who once posed as the principal exponent of the "square deal" and who popularized the phrase—and himself as its supreme practitioner—into general acceptance.

If the phase still held inviolate the olden meaning in which the people had faith before the Roosevelt Administration, and if the inherent decencies and significances of the words had not departed, leaving them merely sounding and empty, "a square deal" would be eminently and essentially applicable to the conduct of Governor Tener in the Cassidy case.

It is hardly necessary to rehearse the sordid details of this fall from grace and popularity—to retell how a man not only trusted as a civil servant, but also receptive of lavish praise as an unselfish and incorruptible conservater of the people's health came to be accused of malfeasance and ventility in office But to get the bearings of the matter, it may be permitted to set down in recapitulation that Harry P. Cassidy was the local agent of the State Dairy and Food Commission with the State's most extensive district under his inspection. The accusation of his corrupt conduct and inefficient performance of duty came from his superior officer. Thereupon the State Dairy and Food Commissioner, as was his legal right and duty, dismissed the official regarded as delinquent from the service for the public good. The discharged agent backed by organizations and journals which have been friendly to him for many years, resented this premptory removal, entering through his counsel a general denial to the charges that he protected or favored violators of the pure food laws—which are fundamental to the public health—that he "blackmailed" persons known to produce unsound commodities, dividing fees in a systematized manner with attorneys and magistrates and that, while he diligently prosecuted some offenders, he was not active against others, for special and discreditable reasons. He called upon the Governor of the Commonwealth, therefore for a public hearing of the charges.

With rare courtesy and voluntarily for attention to this affair was not imperatively mandatory or otherwise incumbent upon him, Governor Tener acorded a hearing to the accused official, at which time his superior presented concrete evidence and his attorney entered an abstract defense. The Governor with a fine spirit of fair dealing—a term we must now use instead of the discredited Roosevelt ian metaphor "a square deal"—devoted time from his busy days and from the pressing affairs of State, that a minor official, whose dismissal was acording to the statutes should present his case.

Nothing could be more equitable, more inspiring than this straightforward, manly action, which is, indeed, a warrant that every man in Pennsylvania has not only the law's guarantees, but if he is an accussed public official the extra-legal opportunity of setting himself aright, providing justice resides in his cause and he is thus thrice-armed.

Governor Tener has now transmitted his finding in the matter. He justly arrives at the conclusion that the dismissal of Agent Cassidy was for the good of the service. In his own well-chosen and reasonable words:

The hearing was not a judicial one wherein the witnesses could be sworn; I have no power to hold such. In justice to you, it is proper to say that no direct evidence of corrupt that no direct evidence or corrupt conduct was presented at the hearing. Some of the allegations, though denied by you were circumstantially against you, were circumstantially against you. But his much is clear, that all confidence between you and your superior officer had been destroyed, and therefore in my opinioon, your removal was for the good of the service.

If sympathy wane between any official and his superior, if co-operation be thus hampered; if confidence be lacking of one in the other, there can be no constructive achievement, no effectual prosecution of ordained work. This is the situation which the Governor sensed with sagacity and statesmanship. He has discriminated the issue nicely. He has settled the Cassidy case properly by upholding the discharge of an official, who is even merely under circumstantial suspicion of venality or inefficiency. For the absence of confidence in his future work means a destruction of his usefulness to the public to his field of activity.

Agent Cassidy has had a hearing which every rational thinker will acknowledge has been fair. It was not a judicial inquiry, because the Governor is not qualified under the Constitution to sit as a magistrate. But quasi-judicial as it was, the hearing seems to the fairminded as determinative. If the defendant is not satisfied personally he may take the matter to the courts. But even his friends must admit that he has been fully heard and fairly.

Newton Newkirk, formerly from Beallsville, out on the pike in West Pike Run township, who has achieved fame by his "Bingville Bugle" sketches, which appear in a Pittsburg paper and some other periodicals, does daily newspaper plugging on the Boston Post. Mr. Newkirk who is said to have gotten his Bingville idea from the country correspondence published in the Greene county papers, also contrimutes daily a column to the Boston Post, under the heading of "All Sorts." This, like the "Bingville Bugle" sketches also contains some rare bits of humor, whic are frequently a burlesque on men and affairs of the present day. The other day Newkirk presented in his "All Sorts" Column an allged interview with John D. Rockefeller, in which the latter is made to express his views on some of the leading topics of the day.

"How's business, Mr. Rockefeller?" asks Newkirk, who signs the interview in the "All Sorts" column in the Post as "Ike Inkslinger."

"Alas, I had a terribel financial setback last week. I lost a golf ball, the first in two years. However, I raised the price of gasoline a cent—one must live, you know."

"Mr. Rockefeller, will you tell us how to solve the high cost of living?" asks Inkslinger.

"That is a very easy problem to solve. The trouble with most people is that they live too high. It hardly costs me anything to live. For breakfast I have dried apples and a glass of water. For lunch I simply let the dried apples swell. For dinner I have a piece of cheese and a glass of skimmed milk (I sell the cream, of course.) For something extra I buy a little cut of beef from right between the horns and make a stew of it. If stewed long enough you can almost chew it. At any rate you get the delicious meaty flavor from the gravy."

"How do you get the most fun out of life, Mr. Rockefeller?"

"By siting right here n my piazza and watching the automobiles go by. They used to pass very fast and kick up a lot of dust, but I stopped that. I had the road filled with bumps. I laughed the other evening until I got a stitch in my side at a fellow who didn't know about the bumps and went by 40 miles an hour. It was very funny."

This terminated the interview and as Mr. Rockefeller arose to say goodby he noticed a pin lying on the floor and picked it up. The pin was bent, but Mr. Rocefeller straightened it and stuck it into the lapel of his coat for future reference.

NEW ASSORTMENT OF STAMPS FOR PARCELS POST

Arrangements have been made by Postmaster General Hitchcock for the engraving and manufacture of a series of 12 stamps, unique in size and novel in design, for exclusive use in the forwarding of packages by the new parcels post.

Ordinary stamps cannot be used for this purpose. The special stamps will be larger than the ordinary and in design, showing a mail car, an ocean mail steamship, an automobile, and an aeroplane, postal employes at work and industrial scenes illustrating sources of products transported by parcels post.

The stamps will be ready for distribution December 1, in order that the 60,000 post offices may be supplied with them before the law becomes effective January 1.

LAYING OUT A ROAD.

Billings Was In No Hurry, So the Work Was Done Right.

A good many years ago C. K. G. Billings, who made his millions in Chicago gas, bought a good sized plot of ground on the heights overlooking the Hudson river at the upper end of Manhattan island. Some time later he put up a house which still remains the pride of "seeing New York" guides.

When the land had been bought the question arose as to the best means of laying out a roadway up the steep and rocky hill, at the crest of which the house was to stand. Mr. Billings was puzzled. He wanted to make it as easy a climb as he could. He mentioned the problem to his friend W. C. Muschenheim, a New York hotel proprietor. Mr. Muschenheim, who was familiar with the hills and dales of that part of New York, gave the following advice:

"You aren't in any great hurry, so why don't you have it done right? Put one of your cows on that land and give her time to lay out a path up that hill. Trust her to find the easiest and most comfortable grade."

Mr. Billings followed the suggestion, and in the course of time the cow made a path which has long since been developed into a permanent, winding, slowly ascending roadway.—Saturday Evening Post.

BIRTH OF A LETTER.

The Way "W" Came to Take the Place of the Old "VV."

The printers and language makers of the latter part of the sixteenth century began to recognize the fact that there was a sound in spoken English which was without a representative in the shape of an alphabetical sign or character, as in the first sound in the word "wet."

Prior to that time it had always been spelled as "vet," the v having the long sound of u or of two u's together. In order to convey an idea of the new sound they began to spell such words as "wet," "weather," "web," etc., with two u's, and as the u of that date was a typical v the three words above looked like this: "Vvet," "vveather," "vveb."

After awhile the typefounders recognized the fact that the double u had come to stay, so they joined the two u's together and made the character now so well known as w. There are books in which three forms of the w are given. The first is an old double v (vv); the next is one in which the last stroke of the first v crosses the first stroke of the second, and the third is the common w we use today.

Real Literary Crumbs.

The librarian opened the book wide and shook it hard.

"Looking for possible love letters and mementos?" a visitor asked.

"No; breadcrumbs," said the librarian. "Subsequent readers do not mind love letters, but they do object to breadcrumbs. Half the books brought back have crumbs tucked away between the leaves. That shows what a studious town we are. Our people are so enamored of literature that they can't stop reading long enough to eat; also it shows what a lonely town we are. Only people who live alone a great deal read anything except the newspaper at mealtime. And it shows what a slovenly town we are. In the interests of hygiene and aesthetics those voracious readers who cram their heads and their stomachs at the same time ought to clean their books of crumbs, but they never do."—New York Press.

Hindu Caste.

The four grades of society among the Hindus are the Brahmans or sacerdotal class, who are said at the moment of creation to have issued from the mouth of Brahma; the Kshatrya or Chuttsee or military class, sprung from the arm of Brahma; the Vaisya or Bais or mercantile class, from the thigh of Brahma, and Sudras or Sooders or servile class, from the foot of Brahma. The business of the Sudras is to serve the three superior classes, more especially the Brahmans. Their condition is never to be improved. They are not to accumulate property and are unable by any means to approach the dignity of the higher classes. These divisions are hereditary, impassable and indefeasible.

Precedent For "Governess."

Albert VII., archduke of Austria, married Isabella Clara Eugenie, infanta of Spain, who brought to him as dowry the sovereignty of the Low Countries, etc. When Philip IV of Spain ascended the throne in 1621 he took from his aunt the sovereignty of the Low Countries, but left her the title of governess. Her husband died soon after, whereon she took the veil, though still retaining the reins of government. She died at Brussels in 1633, aged sixty-six. Here there is precedent for the use of the word governess when a lady holds the post.—London Notes and Queries.

Franklin on Long Graces.

Ben Franklin found the long graces used by his father before and after meals very tedious. One day after the winter's provision had been salted he said, "I think, father, if you were to say grace over the whole cask once for all it would be a great saving of time."—Life.

CATTLE CROSSING OVER IRRIGATING CANAL

HOME and social life in Northern California is the most pleasant because there are more bright days than in Southern Italy, and there is every convenience for bringing people together.

FARMS in the Sacramento Valley produce many more times net profit to the acre than Eastern farms because the soil is the best, sun shines every day, and there is plenty of good water for irrigating, with proper drainage.

ORANGES, potatoes, alfalfa and all fruits, grains, grasses and vegetables mature earlier in Northern California than in any part of the world.

STOCK and POULTRY are easier to raise and produce more because the climate is healthful and green feed grows in abundance.

MARKETS are very near, with cheap railroad and river transportation, making financial success sure.

If interested, we urge you to write us today and learn of people who are making big money there now.

Let us know what you wish most to be informed about and get an instructive reply.

Don't delay, every day now sees new settlers moving on this land, as it is ready for seed, and the best farms go first.

FREE ADVICE TO SICK WOMEN

Thousands Have Been Helped By Common Sense Suggestions.

Women suffering from any form of female ills are invited to communicate promptly with the woman's private correspondence department of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established a confidential correspondence which has extended over many years and which has never been broken. Never have they published a testimonial or used a letter without the written consent of the writer, and never has the Company allowed these confidential letters to get out of their possession, as the hundreds of thousands of them in their files will attest.

Out of the vast volume of experience which they have to draw from, it is more than possible that they possess the very knowledge needed in your case. Nothing is asked in return except your good will, and their advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Address Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Every woman ought to have Lydia E. Pinkham's 80-page Text Book. It is not a book for general distribution, as it is too expensive. It is free and only obtainable by mail. Write for it today.
